For county runoffs Absentee voting starts Wednesday

Absentee voting opens Wednesday for registered voters who will be outside the county June 5, the day runoff elections are held for six Democratic races.

Voters who will be within county boundaries any time between May 26 and June 1, when the absentee voting period ends, can only vote absentee in person if they will not be able to vote at their designated election precinct June 5.

This is done by filling out an application to vote absentee, and marking a ballot in the first floor courthouse office of County Clerk Dick Cervinka. Although absentee voting opens 20 days before election day for regular elections, election codes establish that absentee voting shall begin 10 days before a runoff election.

"THERE WON'T BE as many voters as there were for the last election," said Cervinka. "There never are in runoffs — which is unfortunate."

Persons who are outside the county between May 26 and June 5 may post requests for the application to vote absentee by mail to the Williamson County Clerk. Registered voters who are 65 and over or who are physically unable to attend the polls are also eligible to vote absentee by mail.

All such requests must be received in time for the completed application to be received in the clerk's office not later than 5 p.m. June 1.

The voted ballot itself, which will be mailed to the applicant upon receipt of a correctly completed application, must be received by the clerk before 1 p.m. June 5. Such requests must come from the individual voter and not, for instance, from a husband requesting applications for his wife as well as for himself.

ALL SUCH CORRESPONDENCE to the clerk must originate outside the county, and bear postmarks from locations outside the county.

Persons who registered to vote in Williamson County after May 6 have not been registered long enough to be eligible to vote in this runoff election.

Whether it's absentee or election day voting, these are the candidates whose names will be on Williamson County ballots:

- Norman Manning and Edward Walsh, district attorney's race;
- Billy Ray Stubblefield and Jean Loving, county attorney's race;
- Dale Swofford and August Bosshard, sheriff;
- Jon Newton and Jerry Sadler, railroad commissioner;
- W. T. Phillips and Carl Dally, court of criminal appeals, unexpired term.

Persons voting in election precincts 1 and 29 in Georgetown, as well as in Cedar Park election box 4, Pond Springs box 5, Hutto box 20 and box 23, Round Rock, will also decide the fate of the contested Commissioner Precinct 1 position.

R. J. Woytek and Carl Lidell were sent to the June 5 runoff for a decision in that contest.

HOW MY GARDEN GROWS — Williamson County Sheriff's Deputy Jim Wilson says this lonely marijuana plant, spotted on a south window sill outside the Sheriff's Office, is his experiment in horticulture. Wilson explained that he is comparing the growth of specimens of the evil weed confiscated from various parts of the county in the past couple of months to determine where the stuff grows best. He has to put this one out now and then, he says, to give it a little sun. Isn't he worried someone might filch the greenery? "I'll get 'em for possession if they do," said Wilson. But can he watch it through the closed blinds? "I open 'em," he said.

After public hearing Commissioners to eye plans adding parking

City of Georgetown plans which would widen streets on the north, east and south sides of the courthouse to add about 45 parking spaces in the center area of the streets will be considered as county commissioners meet Monday morning.

"It'll take a little bit of the county property, about as far as the sidewalks," Commissioner Wesley Johnson estimated. Curbing would then be placed against sidewalks, with the present grassy area no longer in between.

"We had intended just moving the sidewalk inward about 15-16 feet," said Assistant City Manager W. L. Walden. "You would have angle parking just like it is, but added center street parking — about 45 spaces."

A PUBLIC HEARING on planned use of the Period 7 county Revenue Sharing Entitlement — an anticipated $151,492 — will be held during the 10 a. m. session on the east side of the first courthouse floor, where the sheriff's office was previously located.

Final approval of entitlement allocations initiated Monday will come after a June 14 public hearing.

Commissioners will also meet as the board of Equalization to hold their second meeting of the year.

ELECTION PRECINCT CHANGES will be considered as a result of voter turnouts during the May 1 primary.

No election precinct may have more than 2,000 voters registered during the last presidential general election year, according to Texas election laws.

Primary turnouts revealed several precincts which, while within limits according to poll lists of four years ago, are now too large.

"Round Rock 23, Taylor box 27, Pond Springs 5 — those are the ones the commissioners are going to have to review," said County Clerk Dick Cervinka. "Election precincts 1 and 29 in Georgetown are getting close."

"Any change has to be made in the term of July or August, but it won't go into effect until January 1 of the following year."

ADJUSTMENT OF SALARIES for certain Precinct 3 employees will be considered by the court, along with requests for a parttime worker in the county tax office and for a replacement Vocational Office Education student in the county attorney's office.

Lots in Florence, owned by Precinct 2, and in Granger, owned by Precinct 3, will be discussed Monday as the court considers surveying and selling the land.

Commissioners are expected to approve a preliminary hearing on the Serenada East subdivision, and authorize purchase of electric typewriters for county offices.

Georgetown leads rebate recipients

Georgetown led six Williamson County cities receiving sales tax rebates from the State Comptroller of Public Accounts during May, with $7,453.57 in rebate money. Taylor followed with $4,464.82 in rebates. Round Rock received $1,662.20, Granger $1,059.40, Bartlett $787.60, and Florence $587.90.

Sales tax rebates are returned to cities on a monthly basis, with highest returns sent during the final month of each quarter. If rebates during a single month total less than $500, the city gets no rebate that month. Instead, the rebate is combined with the next month's check, with both payments made at once.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock mailed checks totaling $9.1 million to 599 Texas cities and towns on May 14. Bullock said he has remitted $96.5 million so far this year to the 845 cities collecting the one-cent city sales tax.

Under the I'm glad we weren't there department: A spark from a welder's torch touched off a blaze completely consumed the acrylic skin of the former United States pavilion at the Expo '67 site in Montreal Thursday, where Clara and I and our girls had visited that year. The little town of Granbury, situated about 25 miles southwest of Ft. Worth on the lake of the same name, has done a remarkable restoration job on its courthouse square. And, according to what some of the business people told me, it has really paid off. Trade is booming.

THE LAKE IS SITUATED just beyond the city limits, and, I believe, is quite new. Facilities, including a new, big motel are being constructed there and the fishing is great, judging by pictures in the local paper. I wish the people here who have wondered about or doubted the economic benefits of a heritage square could make the trip up and look it over.

Jefferson is a much older place, rich in history that goes back to the Civil War when it was a manufacturing and distribution center for the Confederate forces. Here, the restoration is far from complete but in some areas of the town a remarkable job has been done.

The old hotel there is jam full all the time. If you care to stay overnight or a weekend, get your reservation six months in advance. It's so old and elegant that even the cockroaches are aristocratic.

Best place to eat we found was the Nut House in Granbury. Once a hotel, the fine old accommodation has been in operation, by five generations of Nuts, for a hundred years, more or less. Vegetables are bought from area farmers and the cooks know how to season. Buffet, all you can eat, about $3.00.

ONE THING ABOUT a travel through Texas that amazes most of us is the incredibly large number of lakes now dotting the landscape. Most are man-made and have been created in the past 30 years. One thing that hasn't changed — Texas is a big place.

The Georgetown Hospital will have 7,000 square feet put back into the original plans, said Hospital Authority officials. The space was put back in because of the tremendous backing by local residents in raising $350,000 for the hospital loan. Presently donations add up to over $415,000.

It was more of the same in Leander-Cedar Park this week. Those good people are in the midst of growing pains, more serious than some because homes and farms must bear such a heavy portion of the tax burden to finance the rapidly growing school system and the Cedar Park municipality with its increasing obligations to the people within its boundaries.

Leander school trustees may face more controversy when they meet in called session at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the school administration building.

Robert Morris, an unsuccessful school board candidate in April elections and one of those involved in continuing concern over school facilities repair, will appear to question the board about possible policy violations.

Board members will also consider resignation requests and authorize the school administration to seek applications to fill the vacancies.

On May 14, trustee James H. Moore and school Maintenance Supervisor Fritz Schuetzeberg resigned their positions following the firing of former school superintendent Dr. Jack Warner the day before. Moore later withdrew his resignation, which he said he had submitted because of differences with board colleagues over ethics and management in school administration. In withdrawing the resignation, Moore said he was responding to requests from other board members, parents, and other taxpayers in the district.

Schuetzeberg hotly criticized the board, citing its dismissal of Warner as the cause of his resignation.

TRUSTEES WILL ALSO consider requesting an Attorney General's opinion on the Open Meetings Law and review their procedures for recording minutes of their meetings.

The consideration follows a May 5 attempt by Warner, two other administrators, and a school district resident to file criminal charges against the board, alleging violation of the Open Meetings Law on April 28. County Attorney Norman Manning refused, after investigation, to take charges against the board. He and assistant Bill Stubblefield issued a statement on May 12 emphasizing that none of the complainants had ever sought to have board members jailed.

Several trustees cited the attempted filing as a prime cause for firing Warner.

Jose Camacho, attorney for Mrs. Teresa Hernandez, will also submit a letter to the board. Mrs. Hernandez unsuccessfully pressed criminal charges against Warner and Mrs. Julia Young during March and April. She has also requested a board hearing, to be held May 29, to determine whether Warner violated district policy disciplining her son.

Aside from those items, the board also has a glut of other business to deal with.

Acting Superintendent John Thurman will present a financial report to the board, which will also review the 1976 school audit.

Communication breakdown

Boy, what trouble a communication breakdown can cause!

Georgetown's City Hall personnel found that out Tuesday after city sanitation crews exceeded their instructions a mile.

Seems that on Monday the crews had been provided stacks of red stick-on labels reading, "CONTAINER DOES NOT COMPLY WITH CITY ORDINANCE: Container shall not be less than 20 gallons nor more than 32 gallons, with tight fitting lid." The idea was for the city workers to slap the warnings on individual garbage cans along their routes which they found were too big, too little, or lacking tops.

Instead, they put the labels on most of the cans picked up Tuesday, regardless of whether they complied with the law.

City Hall secretary Karen Whitt estimated she took probably 35 angry calls from city residents, not counting the ones that may have gone to City Manager Leo Wood's office. Asst. Manager W. L. Walden explained on radio KGTN's "Party Line" program that the whole thing was a gaff, the result of a misunderstanding somewhere along the line between City Hall and the Sanitation Department.

Walden said citizens should disregard the warning if it does not apply to their garbage cans.

Williamson County tax offices and substations issued a total 37,506 license stickers through May 1, receipting $974,469.10 for the sales.

Of the total fees, $175,000 is placed in county highway funds while another $28,706.53 goes into the county officers salary fund. The remaining $770,762.57 is paid to the State of Texas.

"NO COUNTY, regardless of size, gets more than $175,000 for highway funds," explained Dorothy Jones, state highway department deputy. The fees, which range from 65 to 50 cents per sticker according to the number of receipts issued, are set by the legislature.

"We issued 20,435 in Georgetown alone, with the balance of the 37,506 stickers being done at the five substations: Taylor, Round Rock, Thrall, Bartlett and Granger," said Mrs. Jones.

While the Taylor tax office is a permanent one which County Tax Assessor-Collector William Buck visits weekly, the other four were temporary substations set up to issue 1976 license validation stickers through April 1.

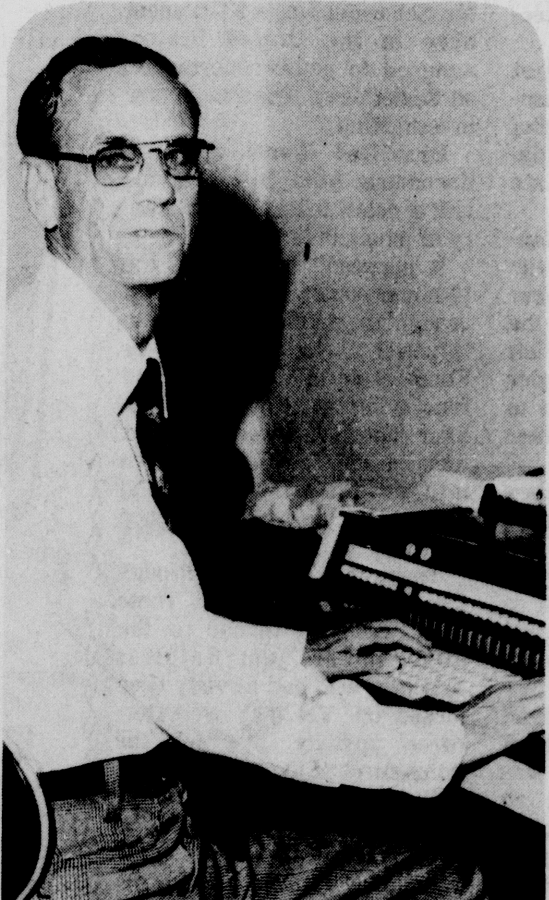

SINCE APRIL 1, however, the tax office has still been busily issuing the license validations. "We've issued 888 receipts here in Georgetown since May 1 — it never stops," Mrs.

Jones said recently. "This is the largest year that I've had in the 20 years that I've worked here. I have never seen anything like it. They're still standing in line. Because you can't keep up you feel like you are going backwards."

Dale Carson is the strikingly handsome sheriff of the world's largest city — the almost 1,000-square mile consolidated city of Jacksonville, Fla.

He has been sheriff there for 15 years; he was in the FBI before that, a dedicated lawman.

Yet lawlessness, despite the best he and his men could do, continued to increase in Duval County.

If the increase was some less than the national increase it was still too much for conscientious Sheriff Dale Carson.

New facilities helped — but not enough.

A revised records system helped — but not enough.

Upgraded exams, departmental discipline, improved communications — these facilitated apprehensions — but, for all that, crime increased locally another 11 percent last year.

It haunted the lawman in charge.

He'd studied what other law enforcement officials were trying — at home and abroad — and instituted any reform which promised any improvement. But his best efforts were not enough.

One sleepless night, Dale's judicial orientation spawned the realization that some Judgment Day he was going to be asked what he, as a lawman, did about lawlessness and he was going to have to reply, "Not enough."

He'd have to throw himself on the mercy of the Highest Court with the plea that he'd "tried."

And then Dale Carson imagined his Maker asking, "But did you try Me?"

And that's how come I was in Jacksonville, Fla.

Because a sheriff conceived and spawned a city-wide campaign to counteract crime with community involvement, by concerning himself more with the cause than the cure.

Sheriff Carson would insist that others had more to do with the project than did he — Mayor Tanzler, for one; Dave Harrell and his committee of concerned businessmen; Moody Adams' counsel, and the voluntary involvement of clergy from hundreds of churches.

Billboards called out the message: "Let's try God."

Local newspapers and radio and television relayed the invitation: "Let's try God."

And then, the culmination of the campaign: this Bicentennial series of meetings bringing thousands to the Jacksonville Coliseum for a reaffirmation of the faith of our founders.

I don't know when, if ever, their effort will show up in the crime statistics of Duval County.

But Dale Carson and the tens of thousands who are lighting candles alongside his — here and hereafter — can know that they tried. And that they tried Everything.

The SUN vs. The PRESS!

We erred in giving the subscription total for the Taylor Daily Press in our Sunday Sun of May 16, the Press publisher H. L. Farrell called to our attention in his Wednesday issue.

Circulation of the Taylor paper totals 5578, compared to 5300 for the SUN, he points out. We had said the papers were running neck-to-neck, taking into consideration, of course, that some necks are longer than others.

Understand, we weren't attempting to belittle the Taylor Press. It's an old favorite of ours and the 5579 (there, I gave it an extra subscriber!) is excellent, in fact, exceptional. However, so, too, is the SUN's subscription list, which is what we were trying to emphasize by the comparison. After all, the Press is published in a town recently pegged at 13,373 population compared to Georgetown's approximately 9,000.

Farrell wrote "Our contemporary in Georgetown, Don Scarbrough of the Williamson County Sun, has said he will surpass the Press in circulation." That's not what we said. We stated simply that "In another year or so the SUN should, if we run it right, be substantially ahead of that (5300) figure." We anticipate the Taylor Press will also be ahead of where it is today and who knows which will be ahead of the other a few years down the road?

However, we'll make a wager on the outcome. If the SUN isn't ahead five years from now the SUN publisher will buy Farrell the biggest and best steak to be found in the county. If the SUN is ahead by that figure H. L. can treat him. How's zat?

Pageant a beauty!

Last Friday's Georgetown beauty pageant has been described in glowing terms by everyone who jammed the Union Building (at Southwestern) to see it performed.

THE PROGRAM WAS EXCELLENT and the girls were super. What more could you ask?

Our congratulations to the Chamber of Commerce and everyone else involved in creating this fine affair. And, lest anyone be misled, we congratulate the gorgeous girls who won the awards and those who took part but didn't win. They were all talented, lovely and beautiful!

Time staggers on

Old Father Time is staggering ahead and soon June 1 will arrive and that's midnight for some of our subscribers.

IF YOUR NUMBER IS UP at that date and you intend to resubscribe, won't you do it before then? That saves us a lot of work, even if you should decide to come back on the list later. We value your subscription very much, and we are counting on you to help us win our wager with the Pressman!

'President's Men' film: really PG?

By David Sterritt

Variety, the show-business newspaper, summed up the situation on one dour headline — "Pix profanity for whole family."

Blazoned across Page 1 of a recent issue, these five words reflected an uneasy response to the "suitability" rating bestowed on the Robert Redford-Dustin Hoffman political thriller, "All the President's Men."

Despite the use of certain words usually mandating a harsh "R" (restricted) rating, the highly popular Warner Bros. film emerged with a milder "PG" (parental guidance suggested) that will admit youngsters unaccompanied by an adult.

Many observers readily concurred with Variety's statement that "the ruling... is likely to be viewed as opening the door to less stringent soundtrack language criteria."

In the wake of such worries, the Motion Picture Association of America (MPAA)

policy review committee has unanimously upheld and restated its commitment to "R" and "X" ratings where "sexually connotative language" is involved. This is a significant decision, since the policy review committee is "governing body of the motion-picture industry's voluntary rating system."

Moreover, Jack Valenti — MPAA president and chairman of the appeals committee, which softened the original "R" rating — has publicly stated that no "precedent value" should be seen in the "President's Men" case.

To state each reason for the reversal of the "R" rating would be to plunge into the mind of each member of the appeal board. Mr. Valenti told this newspaper, noting that 19 of the committee's 22 members took part in the vote, which was 17 to 2 in favor of "PG."

"However," he continued, "my judgment is that the members reversed the 'R' because there was no violence of any kind in the picture, and not a speck of sex, and that if those four-letter words had not been there, this would have been a 'G' picture without any question. . . . Moreover, the words were used in a throw-away manner, not in a sexual way, but as expletives."

"The members may have felt that if ever a film cried out for a reversal because of language, this one did," Mr. Valenti concluded.

According to chairman Richard Heffner of the rating board which originally bestowed the "R," "President's Men" sets no precedent for two reasons. First, appeal-committee decisions relate only to the individual film under discussion. Second, the appeal group — while not bound by MPAA rules governing the ratings board — has no influence on general MPAA policy or day-by-day rating-board procedures.

Still, skeptics note that any film can be brought before the appeal group, which operates independently of the guidelines set for the rating board. Mr. Heffner maintains there has been no consistent pattern of appeal-board decisions to soften "R" and "X" ratings. But the "President's Men" incident alone has prompted some insiders to concur with movie commentator Frank Segers that strict rulings "will be far more difficult to defend in the future, now that 'President's Men' has received its PG."

Much of the uncertainty stems from the fact that MPAA rating practices have undergone radical change since their inception in 1968. Words and scenes that called for "X" tags in 1968 now are viewed far more leniently.

Within the past two years, Paul Mazursky's "Harry and Tonto" and Robert Altman's "Nashville" received "R" labels on the basis of single words used once. "All the President's Men" now passes with a PG despite far more frequent uses of obscenity.

Filmmakers often question the use and validity of MPAA labels. The producers of "Return of the Pink Panther" openly wondered whether their "G" (general audiences) would give the impression that their movie was "bland."

Producer Robert B. Radnitz, one of the few producers to devote his career to family fare, now prefers to avoid the "family" label because of its connotations of shallowness and artificiality.

By contrast, director and Oscar-winner Delbert Mann has frequently defended the rating system as the most workable way to inform audiences of film content and suitability.

'Daughter, there are times I can't believe those two fellows are fighting over you'

The Christian Science Monitor

Jack Anderson Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON -- Fidel Castro is at it again.

Secret intelligence reports claim that Cuban advisers are training African guerrillas in Mozambique for operations against white-ruled Rhodesia. Intelligence sources say, however, there is no evidence that Cuban troops are crossing into Rhodesia to take part in the actual combat.

Castro, of course, caused an international stir by sending combat troops to Angola. The intelligence reports estimate that between 13,000 and 14,000 Cuban troops are still stationed there. Some are helping the new rulers root out rival guerrillas from the rugged southeastern section of the country. But their main purpose, apparently, is to deter any counter-offensive until the country is stabilized.

American intelligence agencies have also detected the movement of Cuban troops from Angola back to Cuba. One report interprets this as an indication that Castro is withdrawing some of his men. But other intelligence sources suggest the Cuban troop movements are merely rotations, not withdrawals.

Unhappy Hookers: The Internal Revenue Service is cracking down on the world's oldest profession. The tax agents want to make sure that the government gets its share of the earnings of New York City's call girls.

Somehow, the tax men got hold of one girl's little black book. The ladies of the night often refer clients to one another. So the book contained a list of New York City's finest, and most expensive, prostitutes.

This led the agents to the girl's bank accounts. The tax men discovered, incredibly, that many regular clients paid by check. The check stubs, therefore, led to some sheepish clients.

At this point, the story gets a little sticky. The Feds confronted the clients with the awful truth and asked them to attest to how much they had paid the girls. It was an awkward situation, to say the least, for several married clients.

One of the girls is highly indignant. It is unfair, she told us, that she has to pay more taxes. The money will be used, she avowed, to hire more vice cops to interfere with her profession.

KGB Call? The Soviet Union often harasses Jewish-Americans who visit Russia. But now, the campaign of intimidation has apparently reached into the United States.

For example, Greg and Nancy Leisch traveled to the Soviet Union in March. They were picked up and questioned by the KGB secret police after they left the home of scientist Alexander Lerner. When they returned to their hotel, they found that their room had been ransacked.

The Leischs thought they had left all this behind after they returned home. But Greg Leisch received a phone call from a man who introduced himself as Mr. Schneider and identified himself as a State Department official.

He explained that the Soviet Union had lodged a complaint about their activities. He was sympathetic. But he said he would have to ask a few routine questions: what organizations or individuals were they carrying messages for? Who were these messages intended for? What did the messages say?

Leisch said he carried no messages. But the conversation struck him as a bit odd. The questions, for example, were virtually the same as those asked by the secret police in Russia.

So he did some checking. He called the State Department. He discovered that they had no Mr. Schneider and that the Soviets had lodged no complaint. Apparently, the mysterious Mr. Schneider was a KGB agent here in the United States, assigned to gather information on Soviet Jews. The FBI is now investigating.

Brazilian Torture: Grim documents from Brazil, at the risk of death, tell a gruesome story of inhuman torture.

It happened on April 1, the 12th anniversary of the coup that brought the military dictatorship to power. To celebrate, the Air Force brass in Recife dragged four political prisoners from their cells. Hoods were tied over their heads. They were thrown into a military vehicle and delivered to the Air Force police barracks.

There, they were put through the most hideous torture. These men were no threat to the government, just helpless prisoners who had already been locked up. Yet they were tortured anyway, just for the amusement of the brass.

We have reported repeatedly on the torture tactics in Brazil. So what is the United States doing about it? Not much. Last February, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger went to Brazil and signed an agreement with the military rulers.

It read, in part, that "No two peoples in the world hold human dignity in higher regard than the American and Brazilian peoples."

But it seems that the Brazilian regime has little regard for human dignity.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor
I'm writing in regards to the book Cats Cradle by Kurt Vonnegut Jr. I have read through the book and I agree with the act of the School Board that the book should be taken out of the school. Our children shouldn't be EDUCATED with this type of book. If there are parents who don't mind their children reading profanity and sex books let them read it at home, not in a public school.

If the book of the Holy Words can't be taught in our public schools why should a book of DIRTY words be taught?

Mr. and Mrs. Don Dickinson

Dear Editor:
I have read in your paper, seen on TV, and witnessed other news concerning the LEANDER SCHOOL DISTRICT and the problems that we are experiencing.

But I would like to point out a fact that seems to have slipped by a lot of people. The SILENT MAJORITY have spoken on two bond issues and a trustee election. The little handful of vocal protestors do NOT REPRESENT THE MAJORITY OF THE LEANDER SCHOOL PARENTS AND TAXPAYERS.

Leander is having growing pains— yes. We have had a school board that was swinging way out to the left, and now the pendulum has swung to the right, but it will get into focus.

We WILL get a new administrator and we WILL be of one accord because we have our future generation at stake — so keep your eyes on the Leander School District — it's growing, and "given a little time and a few kind words" — it will be the best school district in Central Texas.

Sincerely,
Polly Logan

The editorial comments following Senator Lloyd Bentsen's article on Justice in the May 20 SUN started out just fine. They expressed what so many Texans have been wondering: where has he been the past six years?

Then you goofed. You proceeded upon the assumption that this same Senator Bentsen who didn't do much for six years will be returned to Washington to not do much for another six years. Shame on you! Give the voters of Texas a little bit more credit. The day has passed when winning the democratic primary race is tantamount to carrying the November election. You have heard of Senator Tower, I believe?

In November Lloyd Bentsen will be facing a man who has a proven record of real accomplishment in the U. S. House of Representatives. That man is Alan Steelman. It is to be hoped most fervently that voters will study very seriously the record of these two men. If they do, they will send Alan Steelman back to Washington as a senator, permitting Lloyd Bentsen to retire gracefully to tend to his many other interests. The Senate will be better off. Texas will have two effective senators, and the country and the people of Texas will profit all around.

BICENTENNIAL GIFT — Georgetown Woman's Club chose to donate Americana books to the Georgetown High School library as their contribution to the bicentennial celebration. Their gift, a check plus expensive books by American authors, totaled $325. Nell Benold, incoming president, and Clare Mashburn present the gift to Librarian Libburn Walker. Lee Rehler and Mrs. Mashburn were in charge of the project, "which will benefit students not only in 1976 but in 1986 and 1996 as well," they said.

'Blithe Spirit' opens at Country Playhouse

"Blithe Spirit," starring the ever-vivacious Joan Fontaine, is the comedy farce about a man with the ghosts of two wives haunting him which opens at the Country Dinner Playhouse May 25.

This is the comedy Noel Coward bounced out of his typewriter to cheer his fellow Englishmen during the grim days when England stood alone in World War II. A unique variation on the "eternal triangle." Coward's ingenious plot spoofs the supernatural whose ghosts are highly agreeable creatures. The comfortable domestic existence of novelist Charles Condomine (played by Peter Pagan) is thrown into an uproar when the ghost of his late departed wife, Elvira, (impish Joan Fontaine) is conjured up by a meddling medium. Still lovely and still mischievous she torments Charles with reminders of their days and nights together. The possessive type, Elvira schemes to snatch Condomine away from his second wife and take him back with her to the beyond. She arranges a fatal automobile accident, but something goes amiss and Ruth, the second wife, becomes the victim and passes into the next world.

The bewildered astral bigamist then is beset with the ghosts of two squabbling departed wives. He manages to extricate himself from the two very blithe spirits in what is one of the most hilariously funny plays to come to the Playhouse.

The pre-show entertainment, featuring the lively singing and dancing of an all new Heymaker cast, includes high-stepping marches, pop tunes, progressive western and toe-tapping Broadway songs.

For your reservation or special group discount information, call the Country Dinner Playhouse (512) 836-5921. "Blithe Spirit" will be showing nightly (except Monday) at 8:15 p.m. and at 1:30 p.m., Sunday matinee from May 25 through June 27.

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

It is fitting that in this bicentennial year Liberty Hill High School has its first graduates of this decade. Thursday, May 27, at 8 p.m., Douglas Wayne Bobbitt and Cody Carothers will graduate in commencement exercises held in the High School Flexible Learning Area.

The high school commencement will be preceded by the eighth grade graduation exercises at 7 p.m. in the school gymnasium.

Everyone is invited to attend these ceremonies and thereby give these young graduates the appreciation and encouragement which will help them to go on to bigger and better things. We want to publicly congratulate each and everyone of these fine young people!

The schedule for the final examinations for this year will be the following: Wednesday, May 26, - 10:30; the sixth period class; 10:45 - 12 the first period examination; 12:45-2 the third period examination.

Thursday, May 27, 9 - 10:30 the second period examination; 1:45 - 12 the fifth period examination; 12:45-2 the fourth period examination.

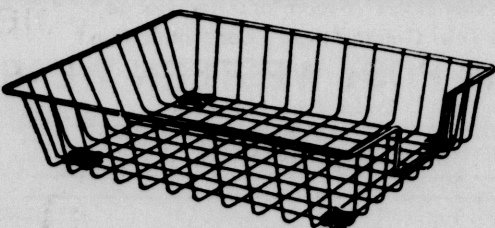

Classes will be dismissed at 2 p.m. on each of the two test days.

The Liberty Hill Panthers beat the team from Troy last Tuesday afternoon by 5-2 in the opening game of the bi-district play-off. Donnie Johnson held the Troy Trojans to only four hits to become the winning pitcher.

Outstanding defensive play by our catcher, Travis Gilmore, Donnie Johnson our pitcher, Rory Montemayor, our third baseman, and Eddie Brewster, our short stop, seemed to make the big difference in the game. Robert Stephens, Donnie Johnson, and Roy Montemayor all hit safely for Liberty Hill.

St. Helen's church news

There will be a general meeting for all parishioners of St. Helen's Catholic Church Wednesday, May 26 at 8 p.m. at the Parish Center, according to the Rev. Al Palermo, parish priest.

Plans for the Parish Bazaar will be made at this time.

Father Palermo urges all church members to attend.

In a beautiful and impressive ceremony, the CCD children of St. Helen's Catholic Church of Georgetown, presented their annual "Living Rosary," Sunday afternoon, May 16.

The children prayed the Rosary followed by Pam Mokry, Vivian Vasquez and Emily Romas participating in the crowning of the Blessed Virgin.

In conclusion, each child placed a bouquet of flowers at the statue of the Holy Mother. The presentation was under the direction of Father Palermo, Mrs. Lois Vasquez and Mrs. Dora Zavala.

Tuesday, May 18 and Wednesday, May 19, marked the final days for this session of St. Helen's School of Religion.

During brief church ceremonies each day, Father Palermo presented attendance awards to the children followed by classroom end-of-year parties.

CCD classes will resume in the fall.

TRAGEDY CLIMAXED the long haul to Texarkana as a blowout caused this eighteen-wheel flatbed truck driven by 45-year-old Paul Goins of Texarkana to swerve off the IH 35 overpass at Berry's Creek south of Nickerson Farms Tuesday night. Traveling north, the truck tore through guard railings near the southern end of the overpass construction, coming to a halt only as it slammed into the concrete wall supporting the northernmost end of the overpass. Oil and debris were flung up the concrete wall, visibly stained several feet above ground level in the lower portion of this picture, by the force of the impact. Goins' body was removed by county EMS personnel. (SUN Photo)

Entomology Notes

BY BOB GLODT, JR.

PECAN NUT CASEBEARER

Now is the time to start checking pecan nut clusters for pecan nut casebearer eggs or nutlet feeding damage from this destructive pecan insect pest. Detection of eggs or feeding damage indicates when chemical control applications should be made. Adult female moths will soon be laying eggs on the pollinated nutlets. Eggs should hatch in four to seven days — then the young worms will attack the nutlets.

Eggs are usually placed singly on the tips of nutlets. Eggs are flat and blue-greenish white in color when first laid but take on a pinkish red color after one or two days. Eggs are small in size, about the size of a pin head.

Young worms hatching from eggs, first feed on leaf buds and then attack the small nutlets. Young worms cut a hole into the base of the nutlets and feed inside the nutlets. As the small worm feeds, pellets of frass are produced and collected outside the nutlet in fine webs.

At least 100 pecan nutlet clusters should be checked on trees in home yards for eggs and worm feeding damage. Check trees two to three times a week for the next two weeks. Where eggs are detected, chemical treatments should be applied in three to six days. Where feeding damage is detected, chemical treatment should be made that day.

Sevin, malathion or zolene sprays may be used for control of pecan nut casebearers. Check the LABEL on the chemical container for rates of application, mixing and application instructions.

A second insecticide application about 7 days after the first is needed in most years for effective pecan nut casebearer control.

In the next two to three weeks some of the cotton will be ready for overwintered boll weevil applications. A few words of explanation are in order before the time arises for actual control.

"DON'T SHOOT BEFORE THE TARGET IS UP" — Some of the cotton fields in both counties are seven to 14 days away from squaring. However, the majority of the fields are 14 plus days away from producing pinhead size squares.

Boll weevils have not been moving into cotton fields in large numbers at this time even though they have been attracted to our pheromone traps. Only six weevils have been found in cotton fields in Williamson and Milam Counties (as of May 19, 1976). However, as soon as the cotton starts to produce pinhead size squares, weevils will start moving. This move from the overwintering habitat to cotton takes place from the presquare stage up to the time 1/3rd grown squares (size of pencil eraser) are found. A weevil application right now (before squaring is initiated) is "shooting before the target pops-up."

PLAN TO ATTACK: Do not allow overwintered weevils to lay eggs in the 1st 1/3rd grown squares. Squares smaller than this are not large enough for the weevil to have enough food to complete its' life cycle and emerge as an adult. Weevils in cotton right now are not affecting potential yields. This means an insecticide application should be applied about three to four days before squares develop to the size of 1/3rd grown. This three to four day period should allow sufficient time for problems with the weather. In those areas where weevils are notoriously a problem, a second application may be required.

Timing of this application is absolutely essential! An application too early (before most of the weevils have moved to cotton) will require a 2nd or possibly a 3rd application. An application too late (after eggs are laid in 1/3rd grown squares) will mean late season weevil applications.

SCOUTING REPORTS ARE

THE KEY:

Scouting will intensify during the first pinhead size square period. Scouts have been instructed to start checking the largest plants in the field so early squaring can be detected. As soon as scouts start finding squares, they will note this on the report indicating the approximate number of days that will be required for this square to reach 1/3rd grown stage. In addition, scouts have been instructed to identify weevil feeding damage in the terminals of the plants. Areas closest to overwintering habitats will be checked for overwintering weevils, and weevil numbers will be recorded.

MOTH ZV: Our first prediction for bollworm egg lays is attached. This prediction is in the process of being up-dated so don't take it literally yet. I will send up-dates on moth egg lay predictions in the next newsletter.

The first small egg lay should occur around June 19th. The second lay will occur close to the 5th of July. The third (largest egg lay) is predicted to occur around July 18th.

As I mentioned before, additional data has been forwarded for processing and should change these predictions.

INSECT SITUATIONS:

COTTON: Thrips have continued to cause damage to small cotton during the past week. Most of the cotton is now large enough to withstand higher thrip pressure.

Fleahoppers have been found in extremely low numbers in a few fields in both counties. The highest count was 2 fleahoppers per 100 terminals. Fleahoppers are remaining in pastures feeding on croton and horse-mint.

Bollweevil activity in cotton is still low. Six weevils were collected in cotton fields in Williamson and Milam Counties. Trap catches have ranged from 35 to 75 weevils per week. Keep in mind that these traps are baited with a sex attractant pheromone, and are located in areas close to overwintering habitats.

GRAIN SORGHUM — Uneventful!

Very few greenbugs and yellow sugarcane aphids were found in milo fields. Most grain sorghum fields have variation in plant maturity within the field. Low areas where water has stood have severely stunted sorghum.

Soil temperatures have warmed slightly for the first time in over four weeks. Both cotton and grain sorghum are progressing slowly due to cool soil temperatures.

Savings bond sales top $128,000

Williamson County sales of Series E and H United States Savings Bonds climbed to $128,040 during the first quarter of 1976, according to latest Treasury Department figures.

County bond chairman Ray E. Condra reported $36,746 worth of March bond sales, pushing the cumulative three-month total to 32 percent of this year's $400,000 county sales goal. During February, county banks and businesses sold $15,582 worth of bonds and $75,712 worth in January.

Williamson County's March sales total was third highest in Texas District 15, which includes 10 other Central Texas counties. As in past months, Travis County led the district with $1,210,544 worth of sales, followed by Milam County's $71,450 total.

Cumulative 1976 sales figures show the county also third, behind Travis' $2,902,429 first quarter total, and Milam County's $198,190 mark.

So far, the district has achieved 29 percent of its $12,180,000 sales goal with sales of $3,476,938. March district sales totaled $1,412,997. District 15 continues to lead the three other districts in Area 5 by a wide margin, both in monthly and first quarter sales. Second highest is District 18, comprised of Bell, Brazos, Coryell, Falls and Robertson counties. Sales there total $462,945 during March, $1,295,504 for the year.

The area has reached 26 percent of its $22,950,000 sales goal for 1976, with March sales of $2,292,233 and first quarter sales of $5,992,404.

Statewide, sales amounted to $26,518,981 during the month of March, compared to March 1975 sales of $18,518,450 for a 43 percent increase over last year. Statewide first quarter sales totaled $73,252,376 with 27 percent of the $272.4 million goal achieved.

Austin Notebook

By Patrick Conway
AUSTIN — Although Gov. Dolph Briscoe wants to lead the Texas delegation to the Democratic National Convention, he's not winning friends these days among the supporters of Jimmy Carter.

The Carter folks are miffed over an opinion by Secretary of State Mark White that said that presidential delegates selected May 1 may serve at the national convention and the June state convention, but will not be eligible to be delegates at the September state convention.

What does that have to do with Briscoe? White is his hand picked secretary of state, and it is safe to say that he doesn't make too many big decisions without first talking to the governor.

John Poulard, Carter's Texas campaign organizer, puts it bluntly: "The governor needs to get that decision changed."

"Carter's people were never consulted, and I don't think that is very wise," Poulard added. Poulard says a rough count gives Carter one-half to two-thirds of the 3,386 delegates to the State Democratic Convention in June, and that its pretty hefty clout.

To lose the 98 Carter delegates elected in the primary would not be too significant, but the Carter people feel that is no way to treat a winner.

The rub at the September convention is that is when the party's leadership will be elected, and naturally those in power don't want to be removed.

But the state convention delegates are mostly liberal this year, and a dandy fight over party control can be expected this fall.

Most of the party's leadership were behind U. S. Lloyd Bentsen's campaign, and they just can't seem to get it in their minds that he did not win the Texas primary.

"They lost and they are going to have to start acting like Carter won," said one supporter of the former Georgia governor, "or we are going to have to make them act like it."

Poulard says it is not his job to get involved in fights over the party's structure, but "they are not making it easy for us to stay out."

He said the decision was all wrong. The primary election bill does not specify one particular convention but states "the state convention." That means both shows, according to Poulard.

Auto mechanics to be offered by Temple Junior College

The Vocational-Technical Division of Temple Junior College will offer two summer courses in auto mechanics, according to Stanley Churchill, vocational-technical dean.

Both courses are open to men and women and even to boys and girls of all ages and no prerequisites are required, he said.

The courses are Small Engine Mechanics and Powder Puff Mechanics. Jack Fendley, the college's auto mechanics instructor, will teach the credit-free courses.

The Small Engine Mechanics course will deal with overhaul and maintenance procedures for lawn mowers, motorcycles, outboard motors and other small internal combustion engines.

"The course will be designed for people who own and operate such engines and who would like to avoid the waiting and high expense of service and maintenance," Churchill said.

The eight-week course will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning June 1 at 7 - 10 p.m.

Powder Puff Auto Mechanics will meet for three weeks from 9-11 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning June 1.

"This course will be good for those people who know nothing about cars and yet they depend on their cars for transportation," Churchill said.

The course will include lectures, demonstrations and lab participation to familiarize car owners and operators with both preventative maintenance procedures and emergency repair.

One section will teach the student to deal with service station mechanics and automobile repair shops. The section could be called "How to Avoid Gypsters and Fly-By-Night Auto Mechanics," Churchill said.

Another section will teach the student to prepare for trips — preventive maintenance before leaving, advice about auto clubs, step-by-step instructions in case of a wreck during a trip.

Special tools and equipment for both Small Engine Mechanics and Powder Puff Mechanics will be provided by Temple Junior College.

Students may preregister with the Continuing Education division or register at the beginning of the first class.

A County Historical Commission request that a historical marker honoring the county's first judge, Justice Greenleaf Fisk, be placed on the courthouse lawn will also be discussed during the court's third meeting this month.

Dedication services would be held with some of the Fisk descendants present.

Born in 1807, Fisk left his native New York to study for the Presbyterian ministry, but subsequently sailed down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers to Texas.

IN 1834 HE ARRIVED in what is now Bastrop, where he was named chief justice of the Bastrop courts by the Hidalgo government. Fisk participated in the Battle of San Jacinto and was subsequently elected a Senate-member of the new Republic of Texas.

Later he made his home on the banks of the South San Gabriel and, when Williamson County was organized in 1848, became its first justice (county judge).

The board will also recognize retiring employees, and consult with their attorney, Adrain Overstreet, in closed session.

Sobering Thought

According to a recent price study, if a farmer were able to set the price he receives for his produce on the basis of cost increases for other goods and services, you'd be paying $4.05 a pound for ground beef, $3.28 a dozen for eggs, and $3.10 a pound for chicken.

City may get traffic study

Georgetown's City Council will probably order a study of the city's traffic and parking problems from one of two engineering consultant firms at a special meeting at 4:30 p.m. Monday.

The firms, Hunter and Associates, and Transportation Engineering Associates, presented probable outlines and cost estimates of such a study at a special Council session Wednesday afternoon. Councilmen Harry Gold and W. C. Shell were appointed to review the presentations with Police Chief Travis Thomas and to recommend one of the firms for a contract.

The city is hoping to conduct the study and have it paid for by a federal-state grant, as a preparation for updating and replacement of local traffic signs.

Thomas explained that the city will soon have to replace the signs in order to comply with federal and state programs aimed at national standardization of traffic safety signs. That work might also be eligible for grant funding, if the city can justify it with a preliminary study.

"There's a good chance the signs could be updated and replaced without cost to the city," said Thomas.

As outlined, the study would include analysis of Georgetown traffic flow patterns, traffic and parking problem areas, and recommendations for solution of those problems. Estimated cost of the study ranged from approximately $8,000 to $9,200.

The federal Transportation Department makes funds available for such studies through the Texas Office of Traffic Safety in the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

To get a grant for the study, the city will apply to the Office of Traffic Safety. After the city contracts the study, the Traffic Safety, Highway, and Transportation departments will review the application and the study proposal, then negotiate cost with the consultant firm. If the grant is approved, funding would begin October 1. Deadline for application is June 20.

Other Council business Wednesday included study of terms for purchase of the 4,000-square-foot 100F Lodge facility adjacent City Hall.

The Council wants to purchase the building for possible expansion of City Hall.

The lodge offered to sell its facility for $28,500. In addition, the city would be required to put $2500 payment in escrow immediately, and to furnish a building site for a new lodge meeting place. The lodge would have the use of its present building until a new one is built. It would also have a 99-year lease on the new site, plus an option to lease again after 99 years.

If the lodge were disbanded, any improvements on the new building site, and the site itself, would revert to the city.

The Council postponed action on the offer until its regular June 8 meeting.

PERSONAL INCOME grew at an ever-faster pace in April, an AP story said. It didn't mention that outgo hummed a lot louder that month also, as folks forked over their final IRS dues.

Willie Nelson was refused a permit to perform at Gonzales but his lawyers said he would appeal the decision (by the County Commissioners), but Willie says he's cancelling.

The Taylor Ducks won the district baseball championship by beating Copperas Cove in a Temple playoff Thursday night, the win sending them into a bi-district contest with last year's state champions, the Brenham Cubs.

Round Rock has been working on its stray dog problem, with 80 animals picked up since April 1.

HEADLINED STORY in the Round Rock Leader: SUB-COURTHOUSE IN AREA BECOMING ISSUE IN RACE. R. J. Woytek has said he would do his best to put a sub-courthouse in the Jollyville-Cedar Park area, similar to the one built in Taylor several years ago. Carl Lidell, on the other hand, "said he would favor such a project only if he was convinced it was economical as well as needed. He warned, however, that . . . everyone could want one." Lidell pointed out that Precinct 1 pays more than 40 per cent in taxes to the county, but receives back only 25 per cent through the road and bridge fund and in services. He would, the article said, request a fair share for this precinct. Woytek said he would work to see that better planning for the county as a whole would go into the expenditure of funds. He would hope to give the Commissioners Court a leadership role, wants better pay for county ambulance drivers and both candidates said there was a need for a juvenile probation officer in the county.

Georgetown realtor William Luedecke was awarded $45,000 in damages and $75,000 in exemplary damages and court costs last Thursday in conjunction with Austin real estate broker Frank Newsom of Austin when a Burnet jury found three defendants guilty of having participated in "wrongful interference" with a ranch sale.

Defendants included Chairman of the State Board of Education Joe Kelly Butler of Houston, as well as his two associates, Lee R. McLain of Houston and Dennis Pharris of Hillsboro. McLain is Butler's partner and business advisor;

Pharris his son-in-law.

The suit alleged that the trio attempted to deprive the realtors of a $45,000 commission on the sale of the Double S Ranch near Burnet.

LUEDECKE REPORTEDLY had a contract with ranch owner Sam Sonnier to receive a six percent commission in return for locating a buyer for the ranch, which subsequently sold for $750,000.

Newsom was to help Luedecke with the sale for half the commission if the ranch sold.

According to the suit, Newsom showed the ranch to Butler in October, 1974, when Butler promised to contact the realtors again in connection with the purchase.

Although Butler allegedly failed to contact Newsom, the property was conveyed to him by warranty deed in December, 1974.

Depositions filed with the Burnet county district clerk state that McLain and Pharris contacted Sonnier, claiming to represent New York purchasers while they were actually "consorting" with Butler.

THE SUIT ALLEGED that the three defendants were trying to dupe Sonnier into paying the $45,000 commission to Land-Tex, Inc., the Hillsboro firm which Pharris was acting for. As Luedecke and Newsom were awarded the $120,000 in damages and court costs, the three defendants were ordered to pay $25,000 apiece in exemplary damages.

A similar case was settled out of court following the judgment as Clayton Nolen Associates of Marble Falls claimed "wrongful interference" in the sale of the J. C. Gathright ranch, also located near Burnet.

For county runoffs Absentee voting starts Wednesday

Absentee voting opens Wednesday for registered voters who will be outside the county June 5, the day runoff elections are held for six Democratic races.

Voters who will be within county boundaries any time between May 26 and June 1, when the absentee voting period ends, can only vote absentee in person if they will not be able to vote at their designated election precinct June 5.

This is done by filling out an application to vote absentee, and marking a ballot in the first floor courthouse office of County Clerk Dick Cervenka. Although absentee voting opens 20 days before election day for regular elections, election codes establish that absentee voting shall begin 10 days before a runoff election.

"THERE WON'T BE as many voters as there were for the last election," said Cervenka. "There never are in runoffs — which is unfortunate."

Persons who are outside the county between May 26 and June 5 may post requests for the application to vote absentee by mail to the Williamson County Clerk. Registered voters who are 65 and over or who are physically unable to attend the polls are also eligible to vote absentee by mail.

All such requests must be received in time for the completed application to be received in the clerk's office not later than 5 p.m. June 1.

The voted ballot itself, which will be mailed to the applicant upon receipt of a correctly completed application, must be received by the clerk before 1 p.m. June 5. Such requests must come from the individual voter and not, for instance, from a husband requesting applications for his wife as well as for himself.

ALL SUCH CORRESPONDENCE to the clerk must originate outside the county, and bear postmarks from locations outside the county.

Persons who registered to vote in Williamson County after May 6 have not been registered long enough to be eligible to vote in this runoff election.

Whether it's absentee or election day voting, these are the candidates whose names will be on Williamson County ballots:

- Norman Manning and Edward Walsh, district attorney's race;
- Billy Ray Stubblefield and Jean Loving, county attorney's race;
- Dale Swofford and August Bosshard, sheriff;
- Jon Newton and Jerry Sadler, railroad commissioner;
- W. T. Phillips and Carl Dally, court of criminal appeals, unexpired term.

Persons voting in election precincts 1 and 29 in Georgetown, as well as in Cedar Park election box 4, Pond Springs box 5, Hutto box 20 and box 23, Round Rock, will also decide the fate of the contested Commissioner Precinct 1 position.

R. J. Woytek and Carl Lidell were sent to the June 5 runoff for a decision in that contest.

HOW MY GARDEN GROWS — Williamson County Sheriff's Deputy Jim Wilson says this lonely marijuana plant, spotted on a south window sill outside the Sheriff's Office, is his experiment in horticulture. Wilson explained that he is comparing the growth of specimens of the evil weed confiscated from various parts of the county in the past couple of months to determine where the stuff grows best. He has to put this one out now and then, he says, to give it a little sun. Isn't he worried someone might filch the greenery? "I'll get 'em for possession if they do," said Wilson. But can he watch it through the closed blinds? "I open 'em," he said.

After public hearing Commissioners to eye plans adding parking

City of Georgetown plans which would widen streets on the north, east and south sides of the courthouse to add about 45 parking spaces in the center area of the streets will be considered as county commissioners meet Monday morning.

"It'll take a little bit of the county property, about as far as the sidewalks," Commissioner Wesley Johnson estimated. Curbing would then be placed against sidewalks, with the present grassy area no longer in between.

"We had intended just moving the sidewalk inward about 15-16 feet," said Assistant City Manager W. L. Walden. "You would have angle parking just like it is, but added center street parking — about 45 spaces."

A PUBLIC HEARING on planned use of the Period 7 county Revenue Sharing Entitlement — an anticipated $151,492 — will be held during the 10 a. m. session on the east side of the first courthouse floor, where the sheriff's office was previously located.

Final approval of entitlement allocations initiated Monday will come after a June 14 public hearing.

Commissioners will also meet as the board of Equalization to hold their second meeting of the year.

ELECTION PRECINCT CHANGES will be considered as a result of voter turnouts during the May 1 primary.

No election precinct may have more than 2,000 voters registered during the last presidential general election year, according to Texas election laws.

Primary turnouts revealed several precincts which, while within limits according to poll lists of four years ago, are now too large.

"Round Rock 23, Taylor box 27, Pond Springs 5 — those are the ones the commissioners are going to have to review," said County Clerk Dick Cervenka. "Election precincts 1 and 29 in Georgetown are getting close."

"Any change has to be made in the term of July or August, but it won't go into effect until January 1 of the following year."

ADJUSTMENT OF SALARIES for certain Precinct 3 employees will be considered by the court, along with requests for a parttime worker in the county tax office and for a replacement Vocational Office Education student in the county attorney's office.

Lots in Florence, owned by Precinct 2, and in Granger, owned by Precinct 3, will be discussed Monday as the court considers surveying and selling the land.

Commissioners are expected to approve a preliminary hearing on the Serenada East subdivision, and authorize purchase of electric typewriters for county offices.

Georgetown leads rebate recipients

Georgetown led six Williamson County cities receiving sales tax rebates from the State Comptroller of Public Accounts during May, with $7,453.57 in rebate money.

Taylor followed with $4,464.82 in rebates. Round Rock received $1,662.20, Granger $1,059.40, Bartlett $787.60, and Florence $587.90.

Sales tax rebates are returned to cities on a monthly basis, with highest returns sent during the final month of each quarter. If rebates during a single month total less than $500, the city gets no rebate that month. Instead, the rebate is combined with the next month's check, with both payments made at once.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock mailed checks totaling $9.1 million to 599 Texas cities and towns on May 14. Bullock said he has remitted $96.5 million so far this year to the 845 cities collecting the one-cent city sales tax.

the passing glance

Under the I'm glad we weren't there department: A spark from a welder's torch touched off a blaze completely consumed the acrylic skin of the former United States pavilion at the Expo '67 site in Montreal Thursday, where Clara and I and our girls had visited that year. It took just 17 minutes for the fire to eat the whole thing.

The little town of Granbury, situated about 25 miles southwest of Ft. Worth on the lake of the same name, has done a remarkable restoration job on its courthouse square. And, according to what some of the business people told me, it has really paid off. Trade is booming.

THE LAKE IS SITUATED just beyond the city limits, and, I believe, is quite new. Facilities, including a new, big motel are being constructed there and the fishing is great, judging by pictures in the local paper. I wish the people here who have wondered about or doubted the economic benefits of a heritage square could make the trip up and look it over.

Jefferson is a much older place, rich in history that goes back to the Civil War when it was a manufacturing and distribution center for the Confederate forces. Here, the restoration is far from complete but in some areas of the town a remarkable job has been done.

The old hotel there is jam full all the time. If you care to stay overnight or a weekend, get your reservation six months in advance. It's so old and elegant that even the cockroaches are aristocratic.

Best place to eat we found was the Nut House in Granbury. Once a hotel, the fine old accommodation has been in operation, by five generations of Nuts, for a hundred years, more or less. Vegetables are bought from area farmers and the cooks know how to season. Buffet, all you can eat, about $3.00.

ONE THING ABOUT a travel through Texas that amazes most of us is the incredibly large number of lakes now dotting the landscape. Most are man-made and have been created in the past 30 years. One thing that hasn't changed — Texas is a big place.

Week's news in a nutshell

The Georgetown Hospital will have 7,000 square feet put back into the original plans, said Hospital Authority officials. The space was put back in because of the tremendous backing by local residents in raising $350,000 for the hospital loan. Presently donations add up to over $415,000.

County commissioners shook their heads over a four month ambulance deficit of $30,403. Wesley Johnson said, "There's going to have to be something done in Cedar Park or Round Rock."

Georgetown has received 16.30 inches of rain for the year, and 3.52 inches for the month of May. Total average rainfall for a year is around 30 inches, and it's only May.

It was more of the same in Leander-Cedar Park this week. Those good people are in the midst of growing pains, more serious than some because homes and farms must bear such a heavy portion of the tax burden to finance the rapidly growing school system and the Cedar Park municipality with its increasing obligations to the people within its boundaries.

Times have changed

What's it like?

More county voters cast ballots favoring William Buck's bid for re-election as County Tax Assessor-Collector than they did for any other person running on the May 1 ballot.

THERE'VE BEEN SOME CHANGES MADE since Tax Assessor-Collector William P. Buck first started working in the tax office in 1953. That's a mini-computer he's playing with in the newest addition to the tax office, a downstairs extension where tax information on 40,000 Williamson County residents is stored.

"It feels great," grins Buck, reminding me that he was running unopposed.

"That feels good too; I ran unopposed both times, thank goodness."

He first ran for the office in 1972, when he came in with the second highest number of votes cast.

Buck drew 7,464 votes this year. In 1972 there were 7,262 ballots cast for him while sheriff candidate Henry Matyssek topped that total by 160 votes that May 6 primary election day.

"Henry was always top vote getter," Buck remembers. "Everybody just admired Henry." But Buck was no newcomer to the job he first ran for in 1972.

Jack Gillum, William's predecessor, hired him to work in the courthouse office in 1953. Then, when Gillum retired in 1971, commissioners appointed Buck to fill the unexpired term as tax assessor-collector.

"BACK IN 1953 we typed the tax roll — every name. Then in 1966 we started with the addressograph," Buck recounts the changes he has seen made in his office. "Then we just improved on our machinery till we have what we have now: the computer. It does it all."

It is this equipment, he reasons, which accounts for one thing which has changed very little during his 23 years in the tax office.

"The number of employees hasn't increased a whole lot. I think maybe we have one or two more than we used to have — on account of our machinery, or we'd have to have more employees. It helps considerably. Just think, if we had to type, proofread, balance it — we'd never get through."

Of course the main change Buck has seen in the last 23 years is in the workload which necessitates the added machinery.

"In 1971 the valuation of the county was $57 million; in 1975 it's $114 million," he quickly says, to give an idea of the changes the county and his office have faced just recently. In 1952 it was $28,078,470. Then we had nearly 12,000 taxpayers. Well, now we have nearly 40,000. Hasn't changed much, has it?"

Robert Morris, an unsuccessful school board candidate in April elections and one of those involved in continuing concern over school facilities repair, will appear to question the board about possible policy violations.

Board members will also consider resignation requests and authorize the school administration to seek applications to fill the vacancies.

Communication breakdown

Boy, what trouble a communication breakdown can cause!

Georgetown's City Hall personnel found that out Tuesday after city sanitation crews exceeded their instructions a mile.

Seems that on Monday the crews had been provided stacks of red stick-on labels reading, "CONTAINER DOES NOT COMPLY WITH CITY ORDINANCE: Container shall not be less than 20 gallons nor more than 32 gallons, with tight fitting lid." The idea was for the city workers to slap the warnings on individual garbage cans along their routes which they found were too big, too little, or lacking tops.

Instead, they put the labels on most of the cans picked up Tuesday, regardless of whether they complied with the law.

City Hall secretary Karen Whitt estimated she took probably 35 angry calls from city residents, not counting the ones that may have gone to City Manager Leo Wood's office. Asst. Manager W. L. Walden explained on radio KGTN's "Party Line" program that the whole thing was a gaff, the result of a misunderstanding somewhere along the line between City Hall and the Sanitation Department.

Walden said citizens should disregard the warning if it does not apply to their garbage cans.

'76 tags yield county $203,706

Williamson County tax offices and substations issued a total 37,506 license stickers through May 1, receipting $974,469.10 for the sales.

Of the total fees, $175,000 is placed in county highway funds while another $28,706.53 goes into the county officers salary fund. The remaining $770,762.57 is paid to the State of Texas.

"NO COUNTY, regardless of size, gets more than $175,000 for highway funds," explained Dorothy Jones, state highway department deputy. The fees, which range from 65 to 50 cents per sticker according to the number of receipts issued, are set by the legislature.

"We issued 20,435 in Georgetown alone, with the balance of the 37,506 stickers being done at the five substations: Taylor, Round Rock, Thrall, Bartlett and Granger," said Mrs. Jones.

While the Taylor tax office is a permanent one which County Tax Assessor-Collector William Buck visits weekly, the other four were temporary substations set up to issue 1976 license validation stickers through April 1.

SINCE APRIL 1, however, the tax office has still been busily issuing the license validations.

"We've issued 888 receipts here in Georgetown since May 1 — it never stops," Mrs.

resigned their positions following the firing of former school superintendent Dr. Jack Warner the day before. Moore later withdrew his resignation, which he said he had submitted because of differences with board colleagues over ethics and management in school administration. In withdrawing the resignation, Moore said he was responding to requests from other board members, parents, and other taxpayers in the district.

Schuetzberg hotly criticized the board, citing its dismissal of Warner as the cause of his resignation.

TRUSTEES WILL ALSO consider requesting an Attorney General's opinion on the Open Meetings Law and review their procedures for recording minutes of their meetings.

The consideration follows a May 5 attempt by Warner, two other administrators, and a school district resident to file criminal charges against the board, alleging violation of the Open Meetings Law on April 28. County Attorney Norman Manning refused, after investigation, to take charges against the board. He and assistant Bill Stubblefield issued a statement on May 12 emphasizing that none of the complainants had ever sought to have board members jailed.

Several trustees cited the attempted filing as a prime cause for firing Warner.

Jose Camacho, attorney for Mrs. Teresa Hernandez, will also submit a letter to the board. Mrs. Hernandez unsuccessfully pressed criminal charges against Warner and Mrs. Julia Young during March and April. She has also requested a board hearing, to be held May 29, to determine whether Warner violated district policy disciplining her son.

Aside from those items, the board also has a glut of other business to deal with.

Acting Superintendent John Thurman will present a financial report to the board, which will also review the 1976 school audit.

'President's Men' film: really PG?

By David Sterritt

Variety, the show-business newspaper, summed up the situation on one dour headline — "Pix profanity for whole family."

Blazoned across Page 1 of a recent issue, these five words reflected an uneasy response to the "suitability" rating bestowed on the Robert Redford-Dustin Hoffman political thriller, "All the President's Men."

Despite the use of certain words usually mandating a harsh "R" (restricted) rating, the highly popular Warner Bros. film emerged with a milder "PG" (parental guidance suggested) that will admit youngsters unaccompanied by an adult.

Many observers readily concurred with Variety's statement that "the ruling . . . is likely to be viewed as opening the door to less stringent soundtrack language criteria."

In the wake of such worries, the Motion Picture Association of America (MPAA)

policy review committee has unanimously upheld and restated its commitment to "R" and "X" ratings where "sexually connotative language" is involved. This is a significant decision, since the policy review committee is "governing body of the motion-picture industry's voluntary rating system."

Moreover, Jack Valenti — MPAA president and chairman of the appeals committee, which softened the original "R" rating — has publicly stated that no "precedent value" should be seen in the "President's Men" case.

"To state each reason for the reversal of the 'R' rating would be to plunge into the mind of each member of the appeal board," Mr. Valenti told this newspaper, noting that 19 of the committee's 22 members took part in the vote, which was 17 to 2 in favor of "PG."

"However," he continued, "my judgment is that the members reversed the 'R' because there was no violence of any kind in the picture, and not a speck of sex, and that if those four-letter words had not been there, this would have been 'G' picture without any question. . . . Moreover, the words were used in a throw-away manner, not in a sexual way, but as expletives."

"The members may have felt that if ever a film cried out for a reversal because of language, this one did," Mr. Valenti concluded.

According to chairman Richard Heffner of the rating board which originally bestowed the "R," "President" sets no precedent for two reasons. First, appeal-committee decisions relate only to the individual film under discussion. Second, the appeal group — while not bound by MPAA rules governing the ratings board — has no influence on general MPAA policy or day-by-day rating-board procedures.

Still, skeptics note that any film can be brought before the appeal group, which operates independently of the guidelines set for the rating board. Mr. Heffner maintains there has been no consistent pattern of appeal-board decisions to soften "R" and "X" ratings. But the "President's Men" incident alone has prompted some insiders to concur with movie commentator Frank Segers that strict rulings "will be far more difficult to defend in the future, now that 'President's Men' has received its PG."

Much of the uncertainty stems from the fact that MPAA rating practices have undergone radical change since their inception in 1968. Words and scenes that called for "X" tags in 1968 now are viewed far more leniently.

Within the past two years, Paul Mazursky's "Harry and Tonto" and Robert Altman's "Nashville" received "R" labels on the basis of single words used once. "All the President's Men" now passes with a PG despite far more frequent uses of obscenity.

Filmmakers often question the use and validity of MPAA labels. The producers of "Return of the Pink Panther" openly wondered whether their "G" (general audiences) would give the impression that their movie was "bland."

Producer Robert B. Radnitz, one of the few producers to devote his career to family fare, now prefers to avoid the "family" label because of its connotations of shallowness and artificiality.

By contrast, director and Oscar-winner Delbert Mann has frequently defended the rating system as the most workable way to inform audiences of film content and suitability.

'Daughter, there are times I can't believe those two fellows are fighting over you'

The Christian Science Monitor

Jack Anderson Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON -- Fidel Castro is at it again.

Secret intelligence reports claim that Cuban advisers are training African guerrillas in Mozambique for operations against white-ruled Rhodesia. Intelligence sources say, however, there is no evidence that Cuban troops are crossing into Rhodesia to take part in the actual combat.

Castro, of course, caused an international stir by sending combat troops to Angola. The intelligence reports estimate that between 13,000 and 14,000 Cuban troops are still stationed there. Some are helping the new rulers root out rival guerrillas from the rugged southeastern section of the country. But their main purpose, apparently, is to deter any counter-offensive until the country is stabilized.

American intelligence agencies have also detected the movement of Cuban troops from Angola back to Cuba. One report interprets this as an indication that Castro is withdrawing some of his men. But other intelligence sources suggest the Cuban troop movements are merely rotations, not withdrawals.

Unhappy Hookers: The Internal Revenue Service is cracking down on the world's oldest profession. The tax agents want to make sure that the government gets its share of the earnings of New York City's call girls.

Somehow, the tax men got hold of one girl's little black book. The ladies of the night often refer clients to one another. So the book contained a list of New York City's finest, and most expensive, prostitutes.

This led the agents to the girl's bank accounts. The tax men discovered, incredibly, that many regular clients paid by check. The check stubs, therefore, led to some sheepish clients.

At this point, the story gets a little sticky. The Feds confronted the clients with the awful truth and asked them to attest to how much they had paid the girls. It was an awkward situation, to say the least, for several married clients.

One of the girls is highly indignant. It is unfair, she told us, that she has to pay more taxes. The money will be used, she vowed, to hire more vice cops to interfere with her profession.

KGB Call?: The Soviet Union often harasses Jewish-Americans who visit Russia. But now, the campaign of intimidation has apparently reached into the United States.

For example, Greg and Nancy Leisch traveled to the Soviet Union in March. They were picked up and questioned by the KGB secret police after they left the home of scientist Alexander Lerner. When they returned to their hotel, they found that their room had been ransacked.

The Leischs thought they had left all this behind after they returned home. But Greg Leisch received a phone call from a man who introduced himself as Mr. Schneider and identified himself as a State Department official.

He explained that the Soviet Union had lodged a complaint about their activities. He was sympathetic. But he said he would have to ask a few routine questions: what organizations or individuals were they carrying messages for? Who were these messages intended for? What did the messages say?

Leisch said he carried no messages. But the conversation struck him as a bit odd. The questions, for example, were virtually the same as those asked by the secret police in Russia.

So he did some checking. He called the State Department. He discovered that they had no Mr. Schneider and that the Soviets had lodged no complaint.

Apparently, the mysterious Mr. Schneider was a KGB agent here in the United States, assigned to gather information on Soviet Jews. The FBI is now investigating.

Brazilian Torture: Grim documents from Brazil, at the risk of death, tell a gruesome story of inhuman torture.

It happened on April 1, the 12th anniversary of the coup that brought the military dictatorship to power. To celebrate, the Air Force brass in Recife dragged four political prisoners from their cells. Hoods were tied over their heads. They were thrown into a military vehicle and delivered to the Air Force police barracks.

There, they were put through the most hideous torture. These men were no threat to the government, just helpless prisoners who had already been locked up. Yet they were tortured anyway, just for the amusement of the brass.

We have reported repeatedly on the torture tactics in Brazil. So what is the United States doing about it? Not much. Last February, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger went to Brazil and signed an agreement with the military rulers.

It read, in part, that "No two peoples in the world hold human dignity in higher regard than the American and Brazilian peoples."

But it seems that the Brazilian regime has little regard for human dignity.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor

I'm writing in regards to the book Cats Cradle by Kurt Vonnegut Jr. I have read through the book and I agree with the act of the School Board that the book should be taken out of the school. Our children shouldn't be EDUCATED with this type of book. If there are parents who don't mind their children reading profanity and sex books let them read it at home, not in a public school.

If the book of the Holy Words can't be taught in our public schools why should a book of DIRTY words be taught?

Signed,

I have read in your paper, seen on TV, and witnessed other news concerning the LEANDER SCHOOL DISTRICT and the problems that we are experiencing.

But I would like to point out a fact that seems to have slipped by a lot of people. The SILENT MAJORITY have spoken on two bond issues and a trustee election. . . . The little handful of vocal protestors do NOT REPRESENT THE MAJORITY OF THE LEANDER SCHOOL PARENTS AND TAXPAYERS.

Leander is having growing pains— yes. We have had a school board that was swinging way out to the left, and now the pendulum has swung to the right, but it will get into focus.

We WILL get a new administrator and we WILL be of one accord because we have our future generation at stake — so keep your eyes on the Leander School District — it's growing, and "given a little time and a few kind words" — it will be the best school district in Central Texas.

Sincerely,
Polly Logan

The editorial comments following Senator Lloyd Bentsen's article on Justice in the May 20 SUN started out just fine. They expressed what so many Texans have been wondering: where has he been the past six years?

Then you goofed. You proceeded upon the assumption that this same Senator Bentsen who didn't do much for six years will be returned to Washington to not do much for another six years. Shame on you! Give the voters of Texas a little bit more credit. The day has passed when winning the democratic primary race is tantamount to carrying the November election. You have heard of Senator Tower. I believe?

In November Lloyd Bentsen will be facing a man who has a proven record of real accomplishment in the U. S. House of Representatives. That man is Alan Steelman. It is to be hoped most fervently that voters will study very seriously the record of these two men. If they do, they will send Alan Steelman back to Washington as a senator, permitting Lloyd Bentsen to retire gracefully to tend to his many other interests. The Senate will be better off, Texas will have two effective senators, and the country and the people of Texas will profit all around.

Dale Carson is the strikingly handsome sheriff of the world's largest city — the almost 1,000-square mile consolidated city of Jacksonville, Fla.

He has been sheriff there for 15 years; he was in the FBI before that, a dedicated lawman.

Yet lawlessness, despite the best he and his men could do, continued to increase in Duval County.

If the increase was some less than the national increase it was still too much for conscientious Sheriff Dale Carson.

New facilities helped — but not enough.

A revised records system helped — but not enough.

Upgraded exams, departmental discipline, improved communications — these facilitated apprehensions — but, for all that, crime increased locally another 11 percent last year.

It haunted the lawman in charge.

He'd studied what other law enforcement officials were trying — at home and abroad — and instituted any reform which promised any improvement. But his best efforts were not enough.

One sleepless night, Dale's judicial orientation spawned the realization that some Judgment Day he was going to be asked what he, as a lawman, did about lawlessness and he was going to have to reply, "Not enough."

He'd have to throw himself on the mercy of the Highest Court with the plea that he'd "tried."

And then Dale Carson imagined his Maker asking, "But did you try Me?"

And that's how come I was in Jacksonville, Fla.

Because a sheriff conceived and spawned a city-wide campaign to counteract crime with community involvement, by concerning himself more with the cause than the cure.

Sheriff Carson would insist that others had more to do with the project than did he — Mayor Tansler, for one; Dave Harrell and his committee of concerned businessmen; Moody Adams' counsel, and the voluntary involvement of clergy from hundreds of churches.

Billboards called out the message: "Let's try God."

Local newspapers and radio and television relayed the invitation: "Let's try God."

And then, the culmination of the campaign: this Bicentennial series of meetings bringing thousands to the Jacksonville Coliseum for a reaffirmation of the faith of our founders.

I don't know when, if ever, their effort will show up in the crime statistics of Duval County.

But Dale Carson and the tens of thousands who are lighting candles alongside his — here and hereafter — can know that they tried. And that they tried Everything.

The SUN vs. The PRESS!

We erred in giving the subscription total for the Taylor Daily Press in our Sunday Sun of May 16, the Press publisher H. L. Farrell called to our attention in his Wednesday issue.

Circulation of the Taylor paper totals 5578, compared to 5300 for the SUN, he points out. We had said the papers were running neck-to-neck, taking into consideration, of course, that some necks are longer than others.

Understand, we weren't attempting to belittle the Taylor Press. It's an old favorite of ours and the 5579 (there, I gave it an extra subscriber!) is excellent, in fact, exceptional. However, so, too, is the SUN's subscription list, which is what we were trying to emphasize by the comparison. After all, the Press is published in a town recently pegged at 13,373 population compared to Georgetown's approximately 9,000.

Farrell wrote "Our contemporary in Georgetown, Don Scarbrough of the Williamson County Sun, has said he will surpass the Press in circulation." That's not what we said. We stated simply that "In another year or so the SUN should, if we run it right, be substantially ahead of that (5300) figure." We anticipate the Taylor Press will also be ahead of where it is today and who knows which will be ahead of the other a few years down the road?

However, we'll make a wager on the outcome. If the SUN isn't ahead five years from now the SUN publisher will buy Farrell the biggest and best steak to be found in the county. If the SUN is ahead by that figure H. L. can treat him. How's that?

Pageant a beauty!

Last Friday's Georgetown beauty pageant has been described in glowing terms by everyone who jammed the Union Building (at Southwestern) to see it performed.

THE PROGRAM WAS EXCELLENT and the girls were super. What more could you ask?

Our congratulations to the Chamber of Commerce and everyone else involved in creating this fine affair. And, lest anyone be misled, we congratulate the gorgeous girls who won the awards and those who took part but didn't win. They were all talented, lovely and beautiful!

Time staggers on

IF YOUR NUMBER IS UP at that date and you intend to resubscribe, won't you do it before then? That saves us a lot of work, even if you should decide to come back on the list later. We value your subscription very much, and we are counting on you to help us win our wager with the Pressman!

St. Helen's church news

There will be a general meeting for all parishioners of St. Helen's Catholic Church Wednesday, May 26 at 8 p.m. at the Parish Center, according to the Rev. Al Palermo, parish priest.

Plans for the Parish Bazaar will be made at this time.

Father Palermo urges all church members to attend.

In a beautiful and impressive ceremony, the CCD children of St. Helen's Catholic Church of Georgetown, presented their annual "Living Rosary," Sunday afternoon, May 16.

The children prayed the Rosary followed by Pam Mokry, Vivian Vasquez and Emily Romas participating in the crowning of the Blessed Virgin.

In conclusion each child placed a bouquet of flowers at the statue of the Holy Mother.

The presentation was under the direction of Father Palermo, Mrs. Lois Vasquez and Mrs. Dora Zavala.

Tuesday, May 18 and Wednesday, May 19, marked the final days for this session of St. Helen's School of Religion.

During brief church ceremonies each day, Father Palermo presented attendance awards to the children followed by classroom end-of-year parties.

CCD classes will resume in the fall.

'Blithe Spirit' opens at Country Playhouse

"Blithe Spirit," starring the ever-vivacious Joan Fontaine, is the comedy farce about a man with the ghosts of two wives haunting him which opens at the Country Dinner Playhouse May 25.

This is the comedy Noel Coward bounced out of his typewriter to cheer his fellow Englishmen during the grim days when England stood alone in World War II. A unique variation on the "eternal triangle," Coward's ingenious plot spoofs the supernatural whose ghosts are highly agreeable creatures.

The comfortable domestic existence of novelist Charles Condomine (played by Peter Pagan) is thrown into an uproar when the ghost of his late departed wife, Elvira, (impish Joan Fontaine) is conjured up by a meddling medium. Still lovely and still mischievous she torments Charles with reminders of their days and nights together. The possessive type, Elvira schemes to snatch Condomine away from his second wife and take him back with her to the beyond. She arranges a fatal automobile accident, but something goes amiss and Ruth, the second wife, becomes the victim and passes into the next world.

The bewildered astral bigamist then is beset with the ghosts of two squabbling departed wives. He manages to extricate himself from the two very blithe spirits in what is one of the most hilariously funny plays to come to the Playhouse.

The pre-show entertainment, featuring the lively singing and dancing of an all new Heymaker cast, includes high-stepping marches, pop tunes, progressive western and toe-tapping Broadway songs.

For your reservation or special group discount information, call the Country Dinner Playhouse (512) 836-5921. "Blithe Spirit" will be showing nightly (except Monday) at 8:15 p.m. and at 1:30 p.m., Sunday matinee from May 25 through June 27.

The Liberty Hill Panthers beat the team from Troy last Tuesday afternoon by 5-2 in the opening game of the bi-district play-off. Donnie Johnson held the Troy Trojans to only four hits to become the winning pitcher.

Outstanding defensive play by our catcher, Travis Gilmore, Donnie Johnson our pitcher, Rory Montemayor, our third baseman, and Eddie Brewster, our short stop, seemed to make the big difference in the game. Robert Stephens, Donnie Johnson, and Roy Montemayor all hit safely for Liberty Hill.

Have You Ever Been Burglarized or Assaulted? Has someone in your family been a victim? The rate of increase in crime is now greater in many small towns and rural areas than it is in the cities.

Perhaps you have never had your life threatened, never even had your car broken into... But do you think you are escaping? You're Not! You PAY HIGHER TAXES... WHY?

• Because Law Enforcement is Costly.
• Because Political Corruption Wastes Tax Money

Traveling north, the truck tore through guard railings near the southern end of the overpass construction, coming to a halt only as it slammed into the concrete wall supporting the northernmost end of the overpass. Oil and debris were flung up the concrete wall, visibly stained several feet above ground level in the lower portion of this picture, by the force of the impact. Goins' body was removed by county EMS personnel.

Childhood PLEASURES

"Even a child is known by his doings, whether his work be pure, and whether it be right."

A mother only has to glance at her child to know if his play is pure, or if it is leading to mischief. Our Father in heaven can as easily look on our hearts and judge our ways. "A good man out of the good treasure of the heart bringeth forth good things; and an evil man out of the evil treasure bringeth forth evil things."

Seek the Lord in his house, so that your heart will be right with God.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Entomology Notes

BY BOB GLOTT, JR.

PECAN NUT CASEBEARER

Now is the time to start checking pecan nutlet clusters for pecan nut casebearer eggs or nutlet feeding damage from this destructive pecan insect pest. Detection of eggs or feeding damage indicates when chemical control applications should be made. Adult female moths will soon be laying eggs on the pollinated nutlets. Eggs should hatch in four to seven days — then the young worms will attack the nutlets.

Eggs are usually placed singly on the tips of nutlets. Eggs are flat and blue-greenish white in color when first laid but take on a pinkish red color after one or two days. Eggs are small in size, about the size of a pin head.

Young worms hatching from eggs, first feed on leaf buds and then attack the small nutlets. Young worms cut a hole into the base of the nutlets and feed inside the nutlets. As the small worm feeds, pellets of frass are produced and collected outside the nutlet in fine webs.

At least 100 pecan nutlet clusters should be checked on trees in home yards for eggs and worm feeding damage. Check trees two to three times a week for the next two weeks. Where eggs are detected, chemical treatments should be applied in three to six days. Where feeding damage is detected, chemical treatment should be made that day.

Sevin, malathion or zolene sprays may be used for control of pecan nut casebearers. Check the LABEL on the chemical container for rates of application, mixing and application instructions.

A second insecticide application about 7 days after the first is needed in most years for effective pecan nut casebearer control.

In the next two to three weeks some of the cotton will be ready for overwintered boll weevil applications. A few words of explanation are in order before the time arises for actual control.

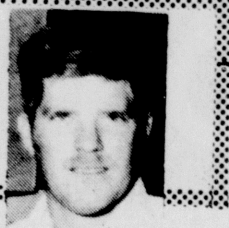

"DON'T SHOOT BEFORE THE TARGET IS UP" — Some of the cotton fields in both counties are seven to 14 days away from squaring. However, the majority of the fields are 14 plus days away from producing pinhead size squares.

Boll weevils have not been moving into cotton fields in large numbers at this time even though they have been attracted to our pheromone traps. Only six weevils have been found in cotton fields in Williamson and Milam Counties (as of May 19, 1976). However, as soon as the cotton starts to produce pinhead size squares, weevils will start moving. This move from the overwintering habitat to cotton takes place from the presquare stage up to the time 1/3rd grown squares (size of pencil eraser) are found. A weevil application right now (before squaring is initiated) is "shooting before the target pops-up."

PLAN TO ATTACK: Do not allow overwintered weevils to lay eggs in the 1st 1/3rd grown squares. Squares smaller than this are not large enough for the weevil to have enough food to complete its life cycle and emerge as an adult. Weevils in cotton right now are not affecting potential yields. This means an insecticide application should be applied about three to four days before squares develop to the size of 1/3rd grown. This three to four day period should allow sufficient time for problems with the weather. In those areas where weevils are notoriously a problem, a second application may be required.

Timing of this application is absolutely essential! An application too early (before most of the weevils have moved to cotton) will require a 2nd or possibly a 3rd application. An application too late (after eggs are laid in 1/3rd grown squares) will mean late season weevil applications.

SCOUTING REPORTS ARE

THE KEY:

Scouting will intensify during the first pinhead size square period. Scouts have been instructed to start checking the largest plants in the field so early squaring can be detected. As soon as scouts start finding squares, they will note this on the report indicating the approximate number of days that will be required for this square to reach 1/3rd grown stage. In addition, scouts have been instructed to identify weevil feeding damage in the terminals of the plants. Areas closest to overwintering habitats will be checked for overwintering weevils, and weevil numbers will be recorded.

MOTH ZV: Our first prediction for bollworm egg lays is attached. This prediction is in the process of being up-dated so don't take it literally yet. I will send up-dates on moth egg lay predictions in the next newsletter.

The first small egg lay should occur around June 19th. The second lay will occur close to the 5th of July. The third (largest egg lay) is predicted to occur around July 18th.

As I mentioned before, additional data has been forwarded for processing and should change these predictions.

INSECT SITUATIONS:

COTTON: Thrips have continued to cause damage to small cotton during the past week. Most of the cotton is now large enough to withstand higher thrip pressure.

Fleahoppers have been found in extremely low numbers in a few fields in both counties. The highest count was 2 fleahoppers per 100 terminals. Fleahoppers are remaining in pastures feeding on croton and horse-mint.

Bollweevil activity in cotton is still low. Six weevils were collected in cotton fields in Williamson and Milam Counties. Trap catches have ranged from 35 to 75 weevils per week. Keep in mind that these traps are baited with a sex attractant pheromone, and are located in areas close to overwintering habitats.

GRAIN SORGHUM — Uneventful!

Very few greenbugs and yellow sugarcane aphids were found in milo fields. Most grain sorghum fields have variation in plant maturity within the

A LEG WILL BREAK... just... like... this, Emergency Medical Technician Terry Admire tells students at Westside Intermediate School in Georgetown as EMT Paul Lees of the Round Rock station shows the splinting needed for such a break. "These things help us a whole lot, too," explained Lees. "because every time you go through everything you learn a little better where everything you might need in a bad accident is stored." Admire, who works out of the Georgetown M & S Hospital, Lees and John Monnich, an Emergency Care Attendant with the Georgetown unit, spent over five hours last Wednesday giving 20-minute talks explaining their jobs as emergency medical service workers to the third and fourth graders. field. Low areas where water has stood has severely stunted sorghum. Soil temperatures have warmed slightly for the first time in over four weeks. Both cotton and grain sorghum are progressing slowly due to cool soil temperatures.

Savings bond sales top $128,000

Williamson County sales of Series E and H United States Savings Bonds climbed to $128,040 during the first quarter of 1976, according to latest Treasury Department figures.

County bond chairman Ray E. Condra reported $36,746 worth of March bond sales, pushing the cumulative three-month total to 32 percent of this year's $400,000 county sales goal. During February, county banks and businesses sold $15,582 worth of bonds and $75,712 worth in January.

Williamson County's March sales total was third highest in Texas District 15, which includes 10 other Central Texas counties. As in past months, Travis County led the district with $1,210,544 worth of sales, followed by Milam County's $71,450 total.

Cumulative 1976 sales figures show the county also third, behind Travis' $2,902,429 first quarter total, and Milam County's $198,190 mark.

So far, the district has achieved 29 percent of its $12,180,000 sales goal with sales of $3,476,938. March district sales totaled $1,412,997.

District 15 continues to lead the three other districts in Area 5 by a wide margin, both in monthly and first quarter sales. Second highest is District 18, comprised of Bell, Brazos, Coryell, Falls and Robertson counties. Sales there total $462,945 during March, $1,295,504 for the year.

The area has reached 26 percent of its $22,950,000 sales goal for 1976, with March sales of $2,292,233 and first quarter sales of $5,992,404.

Statewide sales amounted to $26,518,981 during the month of March, compared to March 1975 sales of $18,518,450 for a 43 percent increase over last year. Statewide first quarter sales totaled $73,252,376 with 27 percent of the $272.4 million goal achieved.

Stuart Long Austin Notebook

By Patrick Conway
AUSTIN — Although Gov. Dolph Briscoe wants to lead the Texas delegation to the Democratic National Convention, he's not winning friends these days among the supporters of Jimmy Carter.

The Carter folks are miffed over an opinion by Secretary of State Mark White that said that presidential delegates selected May 1 may serve at the national convention and the June state convention, but will not be eligible to be delegates at the September state convention.

What does that have to do with Briscoe? White is his hand picked secretary of state, and it is safe to say that he doesn't make too many big decisions without first talking to the governor.

John Poulund, Carter's Texas campaign organizer, puts it bluntly: "The governor needs to get that decision changed."

"Carter's people were never consulted, and I don't think that is very wise," Poulund added.

Poulund says a rough count gives Carter one-half to two-thirds of the 3,386 delegates to the State Democratic Convention in June, and that its pretty hefty clout.

To lose the 98 Carter delegates elected in the primary would not be too significant, but the Carter people feel that is no way to treat a winner.

The rub at the September convention is that is when the party's leadership will be elected, and naturally those in power don't want to be removed.

But the state convention delegates are mostly liberal this year, and a dandy fight over party control can be expected this Fall.

Most of the party's leadership were behind U. S. Lloyd Bentsen's campaign, and they just can't seem to get it in their minds that he did not win the Texas primary.

"They lost and they are going to have to start acting like Carter won," said one supporter of the former Georgia governor, "or we are going to have to make them act like it."

Poulund says it is not his job to get involved in fights over the party's structure, but "they are not making it easy for us to stay out."

He said the decision was all wrong. The primary election bill does not specify one particular convention but states "the state convention." That means both shows, according to Poulund.

Auto mechanics to be offered by Temple Junior College

The Vocational-Technical Division of Temple Junior College will offer two summer courses in auto mechanics, according to Stanley Churchill, vocational-technical dean.

Both courses are open to men and women and even to boys and girls of all ages and no prerequisites are required, he said.

The courses are Small Engine Mechanics and Powder Puff Mechanics. Jack Fendley, the college's auto mechanics instructor, will teach the credit-free courses.

The Small Engine Mechanics course will deal with overhaul and maintenance procedures for lawn mowers, motorcycles, outboard motors and other small internal combustion engines.

"The course will be designed for people who own and operate such engines and who would like to avoid the waiting and high expense of service and maintenance," Churchill said.

The eight-week course will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning June 1 at 7 - 10 p.m.

Powder Puff Auto Mechanics will meet for three weeks from 9-11 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning June 1.

"This course will be good for those people who know nothing about cars and yet they depend on their cars for transportation," Churchill said.

The course will include lectures, demonstrations and lab participation to familiarize car owners and operators with both preventative maintenance procedures and emergency repair.

One section will teach the student to deal with service station mechanics and automobile repair shops. The section could be called "How to Avoid Gypsters and Fly-By-Night Auto Mechanics," Churchill said.

Another section will teach the student to prepare for trips — preventive maintenance before leaving, advice about auto clubs, step-by-step instructions in case of a wreck during a trip.

Special tools and equipment for both Small Engine Mechanics and Powder Puff Mechanics will be provided by Temple Junior College.

Students may preregister with the Continuing Education division or register at the beginning of the first class.

A County Historical Commission request that a historical marker honoring the county's first judge, Justice Greenleaf Fisk, be placed on the courthouse lawn will also be discussed during the court's third meeting this month.

Dedication services would be held with some of the Fisk descendants present.

Born in 1807, Fisk left his native New York to study for the Presbyterian ministry, but subsequently sailed down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers to Texas.

IN 1834 HE ARRIVED in what is now Bastrop, where he was named chief justice of the Bastrop courts by the Hidalgo government. Fisk participated in the Battle of San Jacinto and was subsequently elected a Senate-member of the new Republic of Texas.

Later he made his home on the banks of the South San Gabriel and, when Williamson County was organized in 1848, became its first justice (county judge).

Coach Steve Maurer will deliver a report and recommendations on school athletics.

The board will review the proposed 1976-77 school year calendar and consider holding a work session with the administration concerning programs and curriculum for next year.

Trustees will also consider changing their regular monthly meeting date.

Lockhart, Andrews, and Newnam, Inc., an Austin engineering consultant firm, will report on its evaluation of school district facilities.

The board will also recognize retiring employees, and consult with their attorney, Adrain Overstreet, in closed session.

Sobering Thought

According to a recent price study, if a farmer were able to set the price he receives for his produce on the basis of cost increases for other goods and services, you'd be paying $4.05 a pound for ground beef, $3.28 a dozen for eggs, and $3.10 a pound for chicken.

Worth Bragging About

The U. S. — with only one-tenth of 1% of the world's population employed on its farms — produces 25% of the world's food.

City may get traffic study

Georgetown's City Council will probably order a study of the city's traffic and parking problems from one of two engineering consultant firms at a special meeting at 4:30 p.m. Monday.

The firms, Hunter and Associates, and Transportation Engineering Associates, presented probable outlines and cost estimates of such a study at a special Council session Wednesday afternoon. Councilmen Harry Gold and W. C. Shell were appointed to review the presentations with Police Chief Travis Thomas and to recommend one of the firms for a contract.

The city is hoping to conduct the study and have it paid for by a federal-state grant, as a preparation for updating and replacement of local traffic signs.

Thomas explained that the city will soon have to replace the signs in order to comply with federal and state programs aimed at national standardization of traffic safety signs. That work might also be eligible for grant funding, if the city can justify it with a preliminary study. "There's a good chance the signs could be updated and replaced without cost to the city," said Thomas.

As outlined, the study would include analysis of Georgetown traffic flow patterns, traffic and parking problem areas, and recommendations for solution of those problems. Estimated cost of the study ranged from approximately $8,000 to $9,200.

The federal Transportation Department makes funds available for such studies through the Texas Office of Traffic Safety in the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

To get a grant for the study, the city will apply to the Office of Traffic Safety. After the city contracts the study, the Traffic Safety, Highway, and Transportation departments will review the application and the study proposal, then negotiate cost with the consultant firm. If the grant is approved, funding would begin October 1. Deadline for application is June 20.

Other Council business Wednesday included study of terms for purchase of the 4,000-square-foot IOOF Lodge facility adjacent City Hall.

The Council wants to purchase the building for possible expansion of City Hall.

The lodge offered to sell its facility for $28,500. In addition, the city would be required to put $2500 payment in escrow immediately, and to furnish a building site for a new lodge meeting place. The lodge would have the use of its present building until a new one is built. It would also have a 99-year lease on the new site, plus an option to lease again after 99 years.

If the lodge were disbanded, any improvements on the new building site, and the site itself, would revert to the city.

The Council postponed action on the offer until its regular June 8 meeting.

ROUND ROCK HAS the same kind of growth, but a large portion of its tax base rests on big manufacturing concerns, including Westinghouse. Progress comes easier there, settling lightly on proud shoulders.

In a few years Leander and Cedar Park will have most of their troubles behind them. Perhaps this has already come about, the corner turned. We hope so, the folks over there have been having their problems, especially in the school system.

It was a good week for President Ford, and for Governor Jerry Brown of California, a fair-to-middling week for Gov. Jimmy Carter and Morris Udall. A bad week for Ronald Reagan, although he didn't admit it. Victories in his home state and in Maryland put Ford back in good position to win the nomination, although he still trails Reagan in delegates. Carter has about as many Democratic delegates as all his opponents combined but has been stung and diminished by the recent losses to Brown and Church.

POLITICS IN THE COUNTY hardly made a ripple this week although eight candidates are locked in interesting and important races. The tempo will pick up next week and the vote is scheduled for Saturday, June 5. Then, one of those winners won't be able to say he's "in" until after the November general election. In it, Democrat Ray Woytek or Carl Lidell will face Republican James B. Coffman for the office. This will be the only county race to be decided in November when all eyes will be on the "big one."

Beginning Thursday, the country and perhaps the world began celebration International Pickle Week with Cong. J. J. "Jake" You-Know-Who right in the thick of things.

PERSONAL INCOME grew at an ever-faster pace in April, an AP story said. It didn't mention that outgo hummed a lot louder that month also, as folks forked over their final IRS dues.

Willie Nelson was refused a permit to perform at Gonzales but his lawyers said he would appeal the decision (by the County Commissioners), but Willie says he's cancelling.

The Taylor Ducks won the district baseball championship by beating Copperas Cove in a Temple playoff Thursday night, the win sending them into a bi-district contest with last year's state champions, the Brenham Cubs.

Round Rock has been working on its stray dog problem, with 80 animals picked up since April 1.

HEADLINED STORY in the Round Rock Leader: SUB-COURTHOUSE IN AREA BECOMING ISSUE IN RACE. R. J. Woytek has said he would do his best to put a sub-courthouse in the Jollyville-Cedar Park area, similar to the one built in Taylor several years ago. Carl Lidell, on the other hand, "said he would favor such a project only if he was convinced it was economical as well as needed. He warned, however, that... everyone could want one." Lidell pointed out that Precinct 1 pays more than 40 per cent in taxes to the county, but receives back only 25 per cent through the road and bridge fund and in services. He would, the article said, request a fair share for this precinct. Woytek said he would work to see that better planning for the county as a whole would go into the expenditure of funds. He would hope to give the Commissioners Court a leadership role, wants better pay for county ambulance drivers and both candidates said there was a need for a juvenile probation officer in the county.

Luedecke wins $45,000 suit

Georgetown realtor William Luedecke was awarded $45,000 in damages and $75,000 in exemplary damages and court costs last Thursday in conjunction with Austin real estate broker Frank Newsom of Austin when a Burnet jury found three defendants guilty of having participated in "wrongful interference" with a ranch sale.

Defendants included Chairman of the State Board of Education Joe Kelly Butler of Houston, as well as his two associates, Lee R. McLain of Houston and Dennis Pharris of Hillsboro. McLain is Butler's partner and business advisor;

Pharris his son-in-law.

The suit alleged that the trio attempted to deprive the realtors of a $45,000 commission on the sale of the Double S Ranch near Burnet.

LUEDECKE REPORTED- LY had a contract with ranch owner Sam Sonnier to receive a six percent commission in return for locating a buyer for the ranch, which subsequently sold for $750,000.

Newsom was to help Luedecke with the sale for half the commission if the ranch sold.

According to the suit, Newsom showed the ranch to Butler in October, 1974, when Butler promised to contact the realtors again in connection with the purchase.

Although Butler allegedly failed to contact Newsom, the property was conveyed to him by warranty deed in December, 1974.

Depositions filed with the Burnet county district clerk state that McLain and Pharris contacted Sonnier, claiming to represent New York purchasers while they were actually "consorting" with Butler.

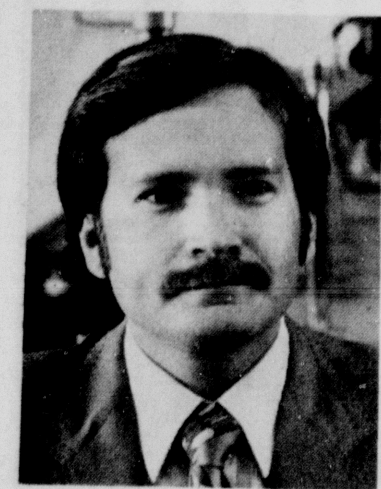

THE SUIT ALLEGED that the three defendants were trying to dupe Sonnier into paying the $45,000 commission to Land-Tex, Inc., the Hillsboro firm which Pharris was acting for.

As Luedecke and Newsom were awarded the $120,000 in damages and court costs, the three defendants were ordered to pay $25,000 apiece in exemplary damages.

A similar case was settled out of court following the judgment as Clayton Nolen Associates of Marble Falls claimed "wrongful interference" in the sale of the J. C. Gathright ranch, also located near Burnet.
